

ART FUND in CAMBRIDGESHIRE

February 2012 Open Lecture

A CAPTIVE AUDIENCE? The impact of accessing Egyptian art and material culture in prisons

Wednesday, 22 February 2012

Speaker: Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistan Keeper Department of Antiquities, Fitzwilliam Museum. Dr Ashton has taught Black History classes in prisons since 2003 and was awarded an Arts & Humanities Research Council Knowledge Transfer Fellowship (2007-2009) to work full-time with prison education departments.

The lecture take place in the McCrum Lecture Theatre off Bene't Street, Cambridge, through the yard of the Eagle Pub.

7.30 until 8.30 pm followed by glass of wine

Tickets £12 per lecture (Students £6)

Tickets on the door or contact 01223 300 887

These lectures help raise money for the Art Fund, an independent national charity committed to saving art for everyone to enjoy.