Chapter 1 Introduction: Themes and Knowledges
  Sourcing and modelling wetlands 1
  Structuring the text 5
  Archival context and other sources 8
  Inset: John I’anson Bromwich: explorer of ‘the gloomy places’ (P.J. Smith) 13
  Radiocarbon determinations (P. Marshall) 15

Chapter 2 Barrow Investigations
  The Snow’s Farm barrow (HAD III) 18
  The buried soils (C.A.I. French) 21
  The barrow sequence 24
    Pre-barrow activity 25
    The barrow 26
    The cremation pyre 27
    Human bone (F. Lee) 28
    Secondary activities 30
  Cremated human remains (F. Lee) 33
  The pottery (J. Pollard) 35
  Worked flint (H.R. Middleton) 36
  Animal bone 36
  Metalwork 36
  Discussion 37
    Pre-barrow settlement 37
    The barrow sequence 37
  The Hermitage Farm barrow 38
    The terrace setting 38
  The barrow sequence 39
    The primary mound 40
    The long mound 43
    The ovoid barrow 43
    Urn group 43
      Pottery (J. Pollard) 46
      Cremated bone (F. Lee) 48
    The round barrow 50
      Later usage 51
  Pottery (J. Pollard) 52
  Worked flint (H.R. Middleton) 54
  Animal bone 54
  Discussion 54
    Sequence and chronology 54
  Inset: Active monuments: the Mergen oboos (C. Evans & C. Humphrey) 55
    Small monument architecture 57
    Wetland stations: later usage 58

Chapter 3 Bronze Age Usage: Landscape Sketches and Environmental Change 61
  HAD VII: a beaker pit 61
    Pottery (J. Pollard) 62
Chapter 4  HAD IV: an Iron Age Shrine?  77

Open settlement  77
The enclosure  80
Magnetic-susceptibility survey (G. Yates)  82
Faunal remains (L. Higher)  83
Late Bronze Age and Iron Age pottery (J.D. Hill)  87
Fired clay (G. Lucas)  92
Discussion  93

Chapter 5  The HAD V Enclosure: Constructing the Domestic  97

Coming to terms with strata: methodology  98
Natural sub-soils and topography  99
Soil micromorphology (C.A.I. French) 100
Interpretation  101
Phasing outline  105
Phosphates  106
Period 1  107
Period 2.1  112
Period 2.2  122
Excavation themes and analyses  127
The lessons of occupation strata  127
Ardmark systems  129
Pits  133
Building details  137
Building form  137
House resourcing (R. Darrah)  142
Building artefact densities  142
Floors and interior space  144
Depositional histories and middening  146
Inset: Household space and artefact inventories (P. Lane)  148–9
Iron Age pottery (J.D. Hill & P. Braddock)  152
Methodology  154
Chronology  156
Fabric  157
Vessel form and size  158
Surface treatment and ornamentation  161
Vessel size and function  169
Ceramic petrology (D.F. Williams)  175
Production and exchange  177
Deposition and spatial analysis  178
Comparison with other Haddenham Iron Age assemblages  188
Style and identity: scored ware communities in the southwest fens  190
Wooden artefacts (M. Taylor)  194
Material culture: sets and assemblages  195
Abandonment and representation  196
‘Organics’ and decoration: negative evidence  196
Fired clay (J. Ette & G. Lucas)  197
Inset: Gender: settlement interpretation and representation (M.L.S. Sorensen)  198–9
Worked and unworked stone (G. Lucas, P. Reeves & S. Laurie)  201
Slags (M. Dennis)  205
Small finds  206
Brooch (D. Mackreth)  206
Ironwork  209
Contents

Copper alloy objects 209
Bone and antler 210
Fired clay 211
Glass 211
Shale/Jet 211
Small finds distributions 211
Animal remains (D. Serjeantson) 213
Bone modification and site-formation processes 214
Mammals 217
Domestic mammals 218
Wild mammals 224
Birds 227
Eggshell (J. Sidell) 233
Fish 235
Non-anthropogenic vertebrates 239
Large molluscs 239
Distribution of bone in the settlement 239
Special animal deposits 242
Seasonality in animal resources 243
Discussion 243
Ritual structures 246
Inset: Totems, house signs and ‘booking’ common 247
Cereal processing, household space and crop husbandry (G. Jones) 248
Species represented 248
Traditional cereal processing 251
The plant samples 253
Cereal processing and the use of space 254
Cereal cultivation 254
Waterlogged plant remains (G. Hunt) 255
Discussion 256
Pollen analysis (J. Simms) 260
Discussion 261
Overview discussion: cereals — the evidence for local cultivation (G. Jones) 263
The wood assemblage (M. Taylor) 263
Overview discussion: local environment and correlation with Willingham Mere (P. Murphy) 266
Discussion 267
Phasing and chronology (with P. Marshall) 267
Household histories and dynamics 269
Spatial structures 271
Enclosure and defence: the draw of labour 274
Economy and trade 276
Representation, closure and status 277

Chapter 6 The Iron Age Landscape 281
HAD VI (with P. Shand) 281
Iron Age pottery (J.D. Hill & P. Braddock) 288
Animal remains (D. Serjeantson) 288
Other finds 291
Discussion 292
HAD VII & X 294
Environmental remains (S. Peglar) 297
Iron Age pottery (J.D. Hill) 297
Animal bone (D. Serjeantson) 299
Discussion 299
HAD IX 299
Iron Age pottery (J.D. Hill) 304
Animal bone (D. Serjeantson) 304
Discussion 305
1981 excavations 307
Flat Bridge Farm (with L. White) 308
Iron Age and other features 308
Finds 309

Pasture requirements (F. Pryor) 314
Below thresholds: overviewing and ‘knowing’ populations 315
Discussion 315
Local knowledge 315
Enclosure and tenure 319
Landscape: arrivals and strategies 321
Resolving communities: a social mosaic 324

Chapter 7
The Shrine Complex: Situating Ritual (HAD III) 327
The shrine sequence 327
Bronaich’s records 328
Excavation policy 330
Magnetic-susceptibility survey (G. Yates) 330
Ambiguities: Iron Age usage 331
The octagonal shrine (Phase 1) 333
The main enclosure (Phase 2) 340
The post settings (Phase 3) 346
Inset: The Byre of Mayual: a Dinka shrine in the southern Sudan (A. Mawson) 349
Building materials and reconstruction 350
Discussion 352
Artefact distributions and depositional context 352
Bone 353
Pottery (with G. Lucas) 353
Metalwork and small finds 357
Depositional context 358
Small finds 358
Bronaich’s finds 358
The 1983 excavations: coins (R. Reece) 360
The brooches (D. Mackreth) 363
Other finds (G. Lucas) 365
Fixtures and fittings 366
Other 366
Discussion 367
Animal remains: evidence of animal sacrifice (M. Beech) 369
Results 372
Discussion 385
Conclusion 394
Inset: Sheep sacrifice among the Tamu-mai of Nepal (J. Pettigrew & Yarlung K. Tamu) 395
A note concerning plant remains 396
The Roman pottery (G. Lucas) 396
The fabric type series 396
Pottery forms 398
Dating 398
Sources 402
Vessel types 403
Contextual and spatial analysis 404
Special deposits 406
Conclusion 406
Discussion: transformation and sacrifice 407
Phasing and dating evidence 407
Architectural and depositional parallels 409
Architectural and votive expression (with G. Lucas) 411
Ritual performance: the place of ritual 413
Inset: Commerce and futures: a Midsummer Fair
Depositional rhythms, ‘messages’ and totalities
Ritual power and landscape

Chapter 8  The Roman Landscape
The Delphs sites
HAD II
Dating and interpretation
HAD V/XI
‘Outlands’: the Delphs occupation
The Willingham fen-edge: Cut Bridge Farm, Willingham (with A. Herne)
Queensholme excavations (G. Lucas & P. Middleton)
Animal bone (M. Brech)
Iron Age and Iron Age ‘tradition’ pottery (J.D. Hill)
Romano-British pottery (G. Lucas)
Other finds
Discussion

Romano-British pottery in the Bromwich Collection (G. Lucas)
Catastrophe and ‘visibility’ in the Roman fenlands
The Willingham ‘edge’: power and landscape

Chapter 9  The Landscape of ‘Improvement’: Post-medieval Times
Ground conditions, 1550–1950 (N. James)
The Haddenham Level
Inset: The Level and History
Upper Delphs Settlement
Overview discussion: New Englands? (C. Evans)

Chapter 10  Reclamations: Communities in the Level
Domestic frameworks: bounding land
Ritual structures
Earthwork continuities: the place of ritual
Environmental and landscape sequences
Settlement hierarchies, community resolution and social fabric
The loss of fabric
The rider escapes
